4 Pockett Road, Healesville

A Touch of Yesteryear

A grand old lady sitting proudly on top of the hill overlooking the township of Healesville and surveying the mountains that surround it is one way to describe this unique property. Built over 100 years ago this home has seen many changes in both its' design and with the the world around it.

Now it has large windows, allowing for sunlight to flow in and views to be appreciated, an open design kitchen/dining/family room, separate lounge and sitting rooms, 2 bedrooms and classic wide verandahs.

Some of the original character features such as a wood stove and open fire place are still in place and functional but to meet today's expectations you will find a dishwasher, gas stove, reverse cycle split system and gas heater.

The layout has been changed over time to suit the needs of the current owner but there is plenty of scope to make it your own.

As you would expect with a property of this age there are lots of assorted shedding and storage areas along with a double carport.

Set on just over 2000 sqm, it has 2 road frontages making for easy vehicle access, an elevated location making the most north facing mountain views yet still close enough to walk into the town centre. Call and make a time to inspect this charmer.
